

Tiger Ramesh joins CSS Corp, as new CEO

India Infoline News Service | Jun 27, 2011

Tiger was the Country Manager for Nortel Networks for India and the SAARC region.

CSS Corp today announced the appointment of TG Ramesh (Tiger) as its Global CEO with effect from 1st July 2011. Tiger Ramesh has significant experience in building businesses in the services and technology space. Tiger co-founded India's first remote IT infrastructure management company 'Bangalore Labs'. Subsequently he co-founded Quintant Services, India's first integrated Technology and Operations business service provider that got acquired and integrated with iGate Solutions (now, iGate-Patni) where Tiger built the BPO and BSP businesses. Prior to his entrepreneurial stint, Tiger was the Country Manager for Nortel Networks for India and the SAARC region. Tiger is credited with structuring large and complex deals for his customers involving international roll out of services in the BFSI, Telecommunications and Technology space.

Nick Sharma, the preceding CEO, will be moving on to pursue his interests outside CSS Corp.
